Primate Awaits
Hungarian Court
Verdict Tuesday

Communist Controlled Radio
Denounces World-Wide
Effort In His Behalf

TRIAL CONCLUDED
LATE SATURDAY

BUDAPEST, Feb. 7.—(INS)—Josef Cardinal Mindszenty remained in solemn mediation today while the Communist-controlled Hungarian radio bitterly denounced the world-wide prayer and protest in his behalf.

A Budapest "peoples' court" will pronounce the verdict on the Roman Catholic Primate of Hungary tomorrow at 9 a.m. (3 a.m. EST). The state has demanded the "heaviest punishment"—which in Hungary is death on the gallows.

Singled out for attack by the Budapest radio was Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, who yesterday conducted special prayer for the Hungarian prelate.

"Death Is Certainty"

The American Cardinal, speaking in New York, declared that the death of Cardinal Mindszenty is a certainty. Referring to the Hungarian churchman's "confession in principle," he said:

"If this be treason to deny allegiance to an atheistic Communist government, then thank God Cardinal Mindszenty confessed to treason—as I would—if this free land were ever conquered by the demoniac people now using every foul means to overthrow our republic."

The Budapest radio also attacked Bernard Cardinal Griffin of England and Theodor Cardinal Innitzer of Austria.

The broadcaster criticized the three church dignitaries for offering prayers on behalf of the Hungarian Cardinal, and added:

"Hungary is not trying Mindszenty for wearing the purple. The prayers of the Austrian and Anglo-American Cardinals would better be turned to Godlier things than dollars, war, ranks and massacre."

Court Not Meeting Today

The "peoples' court" which tried the leader of Hungary's seven million Catholics on charges of espionage, treason and black-marketing will not meet today.

Chinese Communists Mass For Attempt To Cross Yangtze River

NANKING, Feb. 7.—(INS)—Chinese Communists reportedly massed more than 1,000 wooden junks on the north side of the Yangtze today for an expected major effort to cross the river between Nanking and Shanghai.

Nationalist commanders in the threatened area were rallying all available forces to oppose the anticipated Red drive as hopes of an early end to China's civil war faded rapidly.

Reports reaching Nanking said the Communists are assembling their fleet of troop-carrying junks near Yangchow where the north-south Grand Canal flows into the wide Yangtze.

Yangchow, 100 miles east-northeast of Nanking, was captured by the Red forces two weeks ago. The massing of the river craft BRUSSELS, Feb. 7.—Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgium's premier and foreign minister, believes that a big four conference should be held now only "if assured of a fair chance of success".

Spaak, a leading advocate of western European unity, feels that the time is ripe for such a meeting. But he feels that any conclave of this kind must be carefully prepared and well organized through diplomatic channels.

Further, the Belgian leader—who wears a striking resemblance to another sponsor of European unification, Winston Churchill—is

Secretary Royall Ends Japan Tour; Departs For Korea

By JOHN RICH
(I.N.S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Feb. 7.—(INS)—U.S. Army Secretary Kenneth Royall predicted today an increase of crises in the relations between Russia and her satellites.

The secretary made this forecast of future "Tito-like" situations just before he took off from Tokyo's Haneda airfield for Seoul, Korea, on his tour of American army posts in the Far East.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied supreme commander for the Pacific region, personally saw Royall's departure. The secretary and the general had been conferring in Tokyo for the past several days.

Royall told a U.S. Chamber of Commerce meeting in an extemporaneous talk:

Have Nothing To Gain

"I believe that those countries which fell under Russian domination since the war will in time—and I believe in a short time—realize that even if they label themselves Communist they still have nothing to gain by association with the Soviet Republic."

The secretary said he was optimistic over the prospects of America

Asserts Russia Seeks Face Saving In East Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—(INS)—A high-ranking American source was quoted today as saying that Russian occupation chiefs are seeking a "face-saving" solution to their economic troubles in eastern Germany.

The informant told International News Service exclusively that confidential reports indicate the Soviet administrators are "seriously worried and alarmed" over the economic paralysis that has gripped the Russian zone. He declared:

"The effects of the counter-blockade, and the inevitable consequences of unremitting plunder, are forcing the realization among Soviet military government officials that they themselves can no longer deal with their current adversaries."

He said they also may agree to the political and economic re-integration of Germany, only to resort to "the time-honored practice of subverting the government from within."

However, such a policy, according to the informant, would be possible only after the evacuation of

Boy Scout Mayor And Officials Are In Charge Of City

Scout Officials Take Over For Day—Plans Are Presented In Council

Boy Scouts of America, New Castle district, and Girl Scouts, Lawrence county district, today occupied the role of city government administrators—filling every office from mayor to traffic lieutenant.

They were sworn into office, for educational purposes, by Mayor John F. Haven, in a colorful ceremony, after witnessing a regular session of council, after which they, themselves, held a "council meeting."

The council was composed of:

Mayor, John Brinton, Jr.; Councilmen: James Peacock, public property and parks; Jennings Grebe, streets department; Harry Wright, safety and health departments; and Duane Farrington, finance department.

Other roles filled were:

Bob Brown, city clerk; Willie Peacock, city controller; Carl Sanders, city engineer; Anthony Phillips, city treasurer; Thomas Baatz, city assessor; Bruce Walrath, solicitor and Victor Galmarino, assistant solicitor; Bob Brinton, police chief, and Kenneth McPhee, fire chief.

Following the transaction of business by the elected officials, Mayor John F. Haven, welcomed the Boy and Girls Scouts, saying that the experience would give them an insight as to how the city government is run.

He called Bob Brinton and swore him in as mayor, following which "Mayor Brinton" summoned the "council" and other "officers".

They stood with right hand raised while he read the oath of office, to which they subscribed.

The "city clerk," Bob Brown then called the roll, and the transaction of business got under way. "Ordinances" was followed with introductions and committed for consideration.

By Grebe: authorizing the construction of an adequate sewer system in the city.

By Wright: enlarging the health program of the city.

Huge Cattle Run Jams Stock Pens At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 7.—(INS)—One of the largest February runs of cattle in history glutted the Kansas City livestock market today. An estimated 19,000 head of cattle, including nearly 300 loads of grain-feed steers, jammed the pens at the Kansas City stockyards. Receipts were 15,930 head a week ago and 10,041 a year ago.

The Kansas City run was the heaviest in the country, topping Chicago receipts of 18,000 head and Omaha which reported 13,500.

Feeder classes dropped sharply $1-2 in early trading with losses ranging $160 to $170 a head. Fed steers and heifers also were $1 or more early.

Brokers predicted that prices would drop to the lowest level since 1947 before today's run was cleared. The selling surge was viewed as reflecting growing uneasiness among stockmen due to recent sharp declines in beef prices.

Seventy Claim Part Of Fortune Of Akron Woman

AKRON, O., Feb. 5.—(INS)—The three administrators of the one million dollar estate of Frances Louise Butler, 80, an Akron spinner, have mailed the first of some 70 acknowledgements to persons who have claimed a portion of the woman's fortune.

Howard Milford, one of the administrators, said last night that the number of letters received by possible claimants "was mounting toward 70." He added that he believed a share in the estate could be determined only through court action.

Mrs. Laila L. Paisley of Huntington, W. Va., filed a claim for the fortune for herself, her brother and a sister. She contends that her brother and sister were grandchildren of Mrs. Louis Butler Snow of Oregon, "a sister of a niece" of Miss Butler, who died last week.

Charge 'Confession' Of Cardinal Was Secured By Drugs

DETROIT, Feb. 7.—(INS)—One of three men accused with Cardinal Mindszenty of conspiracy against Hungary declared today the prime's "confession" was obtained through the use of a drug called "akteidon".

The charge was made in Detroit by Dr. Tibor Eckhardt, former leader of the Hungarian peasants' political party now lecturing in this country.

Eckhardt said the drug known in Hungary as "akteidon" exerts an hypnotic effect upon its victim. He added:

"The Russians learned to use this drug when they discovered that confessions obtained through torture were too obvious to the world."

Dr. Eckhardt declared the drug was used on Cardinal Mindszenty "without question of doubt".

The former head of the peasants' party was one of a few close friends who accompanied the cardinal to LaGuardia airport when he returned to Hungary last June. He quoted the cardinal as saying at that time:

"I will never see you alive again. But rest assured, I will die with honor."

FORTUNE NEAR

DELL CITY, Tex.—Ed Brownfield has what appears to be a gold mine in his well, but the catch is that there is no way to get at the gold profitably. Small rocks occasionally are pumped from his 250-foot irrigation project well. They assay at $95 a ton, but geologists said there is no way to get at the gold without spending a fortune.

Deaths Of The Day

Clarence E. Spencer

Clarence E. Spencer, aged 62 years, of 804 Wilmington avenue, who operated the Spencer Paint store for the past 28 years, died in the Jameson Memorial hospital, Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Interment will take place in Locust Grove cemetery.

"As God is my witness, I am not an enemy of the Hungarian people. I am not an enemy of our peasants and workers, of whom I am one."

"May God give you the wisdom to pass judgment which abroad and here will bring peace and reconciliation."

The state prosecutor, Dr. Gyula Alapi asked the five-man court for a harsh verdict, but in accordance with Hungarian procedure did not name a specific punishment. However, his demand for the "heaviest punishment" clearly indicated an appeal for the death penalty.

Six co-defendants are awaiting sentence with the Cardinal. They include two Roman Catholic priests, the Cardinal's secretary and Prince Paul Esterhazy, one of Hungary's richest noblemen, and two lay Catholic leaders.

"Russia can have no illusion on that score.

"We could not renounce our plans for an organization of Europe and the conclusion of the Atlantic pact. These plans have nothing aggressive about them. They are not directed against Russia and they are purely defensive.

"Efforts for peace must be based on a genuine desire to solve outstanding problems such as those relating to Germany and Greece."

Like many other western European statesmen, Spaak is of the opinion that Russia must show its desire for cooperation and understanding through specific acts.

As a start, he suggests that Russia could "moderate its attacks on the western powers, and on the Marshall plan, which is indispensable to the prosperity of Europe."

Chance of Understanding

The Belgian premier feels that once western Europe is well organized—as envisaged in the Brussels powers' "council of Europe"—the chances for understanding with Russia will be increased.

He told this correspondent:

"When the balance of power has been restored by an organization of Europe, agreement will certainly be possible with the Soviet Union—if the latter wishes it. I am not among those who thinks war inevitable."

Spaak is confident that the newly-formed council of Europe—which at its inception will include Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—is a "great and historic step" toward eventual European federation.

Not Premature

In answer to my questions regarding the advisability of a big four meeting of the U. S., Britain, Russia and France, Spaak declared:

"I don't think it's premature to have a meeting of the big four. The time has come for it, but it must be well organized.

"The question is not so much if and why the meeting should take place, but whether the merits and purposes of the meeting are quite clear. The position of the powers on every problem to be discussed must be quite clearly defined.

"One cannot start such a conference without being assured of a fair chance of success.

"Preparations for the conference should be made through the usual diplomatic channels, not through exchange of correspondence between Stalin and myself," he said.

Spaak is a member of the Communist army of Gen. Chen Yi's command in northern Kiangsu Province along the grand canal. Both Red army groups accordingly were expected shortly to unleash a combined and concerted southward offensive to span the Yangtze and seize Chinkiang.

Civilian refugees who flowed into Nanking during the past fortnight from Pukow, the rail terminus across the Yangtze from the capital, were reported returning to their homes. This was attributed to a lessening of Communist military pressure on the western wing of the last central front.

Last week, forces of Gen. Liu Po-Chang's Communists army withdrew from the railhead of Wuyi, 15 miles northwest of Nanking, and moved eastward to join Gen. Chen Yi's army.

"Rapprochement between east and west is certainly desirable. But as has been remarked in Washington, this rapprochement must not only be in words but in acts."

There is not a single nation which has fallen under Russian power since the war which has not gone down. The people are living more poorly and particularly the laboring people are living more poorly.

"On the contrary there is not a nation American has touched in which the scale of living has not gone upward."

"Secondly, there are 12,000,000 persons confined in Russian con-

City Health SuperintendentMOSES AND PIGS

Some people like to study history. They learn how people lived in the long long ago. They were troubled with diseases of many kinds.

Moses was the leader of a nation. He knew that public health was a very important problem.

His people were nomads. They were on the move. They did not stay in one place very long.

Perhaps their cooking equipment was not very good.

Moses suspected that pigs were carriers of dangerous diseases. He knew that people got sick after eating pork. He knew about worms.

He was wise enough to forbid the use of pork for food.

Nowadays we know about a disease of pigs and people. It is called trichinosis. Pork should always be cooked thoroughly. Well cooked pork is very valuable food.

CANNON'S ORDER

Republicans in Congress are making some headway with their campaign to whittle down the President's budget. A number of Democrats have expressed uneasiness over the Truman spending program, and some of them seem determined to do something about it. Their ranks include Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. One, who occupies a key position, is Chairman Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee.

According to Representative Rooney of New York, who heads the subcommittee on the State, Justice and Commerce departments, Cannon has issued orders that the nine subcommittees of the Appropriations Committee must find some method to cut their requests. This is taken as evidence that one important administration supporter may not support the administration's budget all the way.

If Cannon actually intends to pare the President's figures to any appreciable extent, he is starting on an uphill fight. Because it is easier to appropriate money than to economize, Congress is likely to spend more than the President asked instead of less. Cannon has some hard facts on his side, however, that cannot be ignored.

These facts have to do with the government's income. There is a possibility that the President has underestimated revenues for the fiscal year 1950, so there is a chance that Congress could follow his budget recommendations and still avoid imposing additional taxes. But tax cuts would be out. And it is certainly a fact that Congress cannot go very far outside of his figures without voting tax increases.

There is sentiment in Congress favoring a bigger outlay for air defense than the President has requested. If Congress insists on providing for a 70-group or even a 66-group Air Force, it will be faced with the necessity of getting money somewhere. If it can be found in the budget, new taxes will not be needed.

SERGEANTS' IDEA

Flying weather over northern Europe this time of year, as many an American pilot of World War II knows well, can best be described as wretched. The turbulences sweeping in from the North Sea on the west, and from the Baltic on the north, leave low pressure areas sitting over sections of Germany and the lowlands for weeks at a time.

At Berlin, the fields that are the terminal points for the airlift are open, or partly open, only approximately one day of every three. Nevertheless, the big C-54s are landing there round the clock. Even on the ground the weather plagues them.

Freezing fog films wings and fuselages with a clear coating of ice within a few minutes. Ice on the control surfaces and leading edges of the wings had to be laboriously removed before takeoff.

Up to now, that is. Not so long ago a pair of Air Force sergeants got the idea that the searing blast of a jet fighter plane might be useful for something other than propulsion. Warming to their experiment, they backed an F-80 jet up to an ice-locked C-54 cargo plane. They gave the jet a little throttle and watched with satisfaction as the big ship was de-iced in a matter of seconds.

The idea has been approved all up and down the chain of command, and is now standard procedure on airlift fields.

The moral is: Never underestimate the restlessness inventiveness of a sergeant.

UNBELIEVABLE

After a study of human development, Dr. Charles W. Goff, noted anthropologist, predicts that 5,000 years from now man will have four fewer teeth, flatter face, larger head and shorter stature. He knows infinitely more about such things than most persons. But that reference to "shorter stature" should be explained. Certainly young people today are taller than those of a few years ago. When will this trend be reversed, and why?

And many persons will be unable to go along with him in his further statement that the 70th century man will be guided more by his brains and less by his emotions than is the case today. All signs point exactly the other way. Going on at his present rate and in the present direction, man will be lucky to have any brains at all in 5,000 years.

Predicting what man will look like, or how he will live, 5,000 years from now is as difficult as such a prophecy as to the present would have been 5,000 years ago. Man is a resourceful creature. He will hang on somehow, come atomic bombs or high water, but he will continue to improvise as he goes along.

But predictions such as those of Dr. Goff serve the twin purposes of stirring man to thought of his future, and getting the learned professor's name in the papers.

Situation is not too serious for Chiang Kai-shek, ex-president of China. He can still write his memoirs and live in affluence thereafter.

In Germany food is being taken to the people by airplane. In this country a haylift is saving starving live-stock. How did the world ever get along without the Wright brothers' invention?

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

The pattern of Hungary's treason trials became clearer today with repudiation by Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of his declaration of last November that any confession from him would be extorted by force alone.

This recantation, utterly unexpected, threw a far less hopeful light on the affair.

Even dispatches from the Vatican had a gloomy tone, comparing the trials with the infamous Moscow "purges" when men broke down like children and accused themselves of almost every crime under the sun.

The strongest statement from Rome was made by the semi-official Osservatore Romano, which spoke of excommunication for the judges of the court. Similar punishment has been meted out to all concerned in the arrest of the Cardinal but this did not deter Communist leader Matyas Rakosi from his pledge to prosecute Mindszenty and his alleged "accomplices."

There is no telling, of course, how long the trials may last and what future testimony might develop.

Extremely One-Sided

But so far it has been extremely one-sided except for the Cardinal's initial protestation. It even has been a trifle over-melodramatic in spots, with spies, couriers, mysterious women and invisible ink weaving in and out of the picture along with respected attaches of the United States legation.

The presentation followed by the prosecutor has not permitted a single thing to be said about the root of the whole problem and the trials may end without it being aired.

It was that by seizing control of the Hungarian government Rakosi was able to realize a dream of more than 20 years' standing—confiscation of Roman Catholic church property in Hungary.

This is to be followed by nationalization of the church, meaning its divorce from the Vatican, and nothing but a highly-prejudiced prosecutor or court could blame a prince of the faith from fighting with all the means at his command to prevent consummation of such a plan.

Justifications

Cardinal Mindszenty has justified all his actions on the grounds that he made no attempt to and had no intention of sabotaging the Hungarian state.

The Cardinal's explanation that he projected his vision of a monarchist restoration beyond the hypothesis of a third world war was clear and lucid.

It may be deduced from what he has been able to say that his sole intention was to save the church. To make it safe stick, the Hungarian court must necessarily adjust or twist his alleged "misdeeds" in such a manner as to apply less to religious zeal than to undermining state authority.

That renders it somewhat unlikely that Cardinal Mindszenty will be allowed to tell his own story—a long sad tale of religious persecution, seizure of church property, closing of Catholic schools, terrorism and oppression of monasteries and Nunneries and all the other excesses of an anti-religious state.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD WHO DESTROYS GOOD BOOKS

Often in this column I have said that creation by the child is the opposite of destruction, and have emphasized the citizenship value of constructive and creative learning.

But sometimes conflicting facts arise. For example that little daughter of yours may create very eagerly and skillfully costumes for herself and clothes for her doll, but in doing so might cut up and use some costly materials you had saved for a cherished purpose.

Indeed, she may often use such materials without first asking you about them. Then if you should become very upset over a few cases and put her on trial after you have missed something, she may do this sort of thing more often, even clandestinely. She may suppose you despise her creation. You really want to encourage her in creativity, yet at the same time to help her gain a sense of value and regard for the rights and possessions of others.

Lots of parents face this problem with a boy or girl or sometimes with a boy or girl or usually their efforts to solve it neither fosters creativity nor good citizenship in the child. More seriously, it may spread beyond the home premises, as when a boy appropriates boards from a neighbor's lumber pile to make a dog house. He gains thereby in mechanical skill but loses morally.

Cutting Pictures

"Dear Dr. Myers: Our problem is our six-year-old son's recent passion for cutting pictures of birds, animals or flowers from any book, magazine, etc., he happens to see. Until recently he was unusually careful of books and magazines, all of which makes this recent development more puzzling."

"Several days ago he cut a flower picture from a very fine book which he had borrowed, pasted it on cardboard, and then lovingly showed it to us. So that we would not notice the damage to the book, he tore out the rest of the page and threw it away. He has cut pictures from several of his lovely animal books. He knows he is doing wrong. When confronted with the evidence he pretends he can't remember where he got any particular picture." She says she has explained to him and punished him and is considering removing from him his small museum collection. She tells of going often to the woods with this boy and his sister four years old where they have studied the wild flowers and birds.

'The Prodigal's Return'

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"Gosh, darn those household bills," I said to my wife as I sat at my desk making out the month's checks.

"Imagine, 474 gallons of oil in one month, and oil at 12½ cents a gallon.

"Imagine, seven dollars a week for the cleaning woman, and $1 an hour for a handy man.

"Why it costs a fortune to keep house nowadays."

My wife didn't say anything.

She just handed me the morning paper and showed me an article telling about the lease of the sixty-six room Andrew Carnegie home to the New York School of Social Research.

The article gave a lengthy description of the steel king's home and finally made me shut up.

It told how Mrs. Carnegie used to entertain 600 guests at some of her parties. It told of the drawing rooms, dining and breakfast rooms, and conservatory that took up almost an entire block front.

Told of the giant library and private study in which the furniture and doors were made specially to suit Mr. Carnegie's small stature.

This giant of industry apparently had enough of an inferiority complex not to want doors and desks and chairs that would emphasize his smallness.

In the upper part of the five-story building there were bedrooms as large as many modern apartments, a billiard room, a private library paneled entirely in teakwood.

There were five elevators, and quarters for the thirty servants who once staffed the house.

The sub-basement, located thirty feet below the street level, looks like the engine room of an ocean liner.

The furnaces consumed a ton and a half of coal a winter day, and the coal was carried to them from a 200-ton bunker in a regulation mine car, complete with tracks and turntable.

According to Alexander Morrison, who started with the Carnegie family forty-four years ago as house boy and rose to the position of chief steward, Mr. Carnegie used to buy his Scotch whisky in fifty or sixty gallon casks, and, in the wine room, there are still compartments labeled "Sparkling Moselle," "Sherry," "Champagne" and "Rhine Wine." But the compartments are empty and the wine is flowing no longer.

I read the article and handed the paper back to my wife.

"What did you say our oil bill was last month?" she asked sweetly.

I did not answer.

But one of these days I am going to talk to Mrs. Roswell Miller, the Carnegie's only child.

Mrs. Miller does not live in that big mansion any more. She hasn't since she moved to a country place in New York State.

I know that mansion in New York City was her father's dream house. He dreamed it when he was a poor Scotch immigrant.

I am going to ask Mrs. Miller whether that magnificent house was a real dream-come-true or just a magnificent nightmare.

Hints On Etiquette

Dinner guests should make every effort to be on time—about 15 minutes before the time set for the meal. A hostess need wait only 20 minutes for tardy guests before beginning the dinner without them.

BIBLE THOUGHT

Who is among you that feareth the Lord, that obeyeth the voice of His servant, that walketh in darkness, and hath no light? Let him trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon his God.

Isaiah, 50:10.

MOTIVATION

The human soul is woven of fine thread. That wind in and out, and around about. The many ways and byways that life will tread. And each thread proves its worth, without doubt. In the style of weave and chosen material. That we find in the maze of happiness: And from the everyday patterns of joy and trial. That stirs the fires of courage and progress. Happiness is the sunbeam thread of gold. Love the blue thread of trust and character: Thankfulness, the pride of humble and old. Carries through the mist from dawn to twilights' blur. And all woven together, the threads are bound. By the tenderness and truth found in life around.

Making A Mess Of Things!

By PAUL GALlico

Oh, my beloved automobile manufacturers! I have just seen some of your 1949 models. You are making a mess of things.

Can you tell me, please, your purpose in shrouding the rear wheels, in some cases, and all wheels in other models, in tin? And then providing the victim of this nightmare with an article known as a "bumper jack" and a gay description of how to use it to change a tire? Did you boys ever TRY to change a tire on the road with one of those contraptions?

Has Me Beaten

It beats me. It was bad enough with the old-type jack that came with the set of tools when you bought your car. It was never big enough or strong enough to do the job. Its base was too small, and if you happened to have a load in the car it would bust at the crucial moment.

Just how silly it was, it seems to me, became apparent any time you were lucky enough to have your flat in the vicinity of a garage and got a mechanic to fix it. When he came around with a jack, it was a big, husky thing that he pulled on wheels with a handle longer than your arm. By George, when he stuck it under your car and pumped, up she came, and up she stayed. It made your car owner's jack look like a toy except that there wasn't any fun to be got out of playing with it.

Finally Did Triumph

But, at least, if you did manage to raise your wheel a couple of inches off the ground, it was handy to get at and you could pull it off without any further complications. True, they did manage to have your spare tire locked in a burglar-proof contraption that would have defied Jimmy Valentine to crack it, but the point I am trying to make is that if you did triumph in prying it loose and all other conditions were favorable, your wheel was free and visible and it could be removed.

But this new set of circumstances? What for? Why? What unforgivable sin has the motorist committed against the designer and manufacturer that they should combine their forces to tease, torture and exasperate him beyond endurance. A strong man, a graduate of M. I. T., a fellow endowed with great mental calmness, physical stamina, patience and plenty of the old man-who-won't-beat-can-beat spirit, might conceivably under the most perfect conditions change a tire on one of those new "pants" cars. A woman never!

Contrivance Of Old Nick

The bumper jack is truly a contrivance of Old Nick himself and comes right from his foundry. To clear the wheel so that you can get at it, this spindly, anemic-looking weakling of a jack is hooked to the bumper and manipulated so that first the entire body of the car is raised sufficiently

Delightful Experience, Says Teacher Winning Last Year's Fellowship

Whatever Lawrence county teacher wins the New Castle News-Penn State summer fellowship at Penn State this summer will undergo one of the most delightful experiences of her life.

This is the opinion of Miss Laura Cowmeadow of Shenango township consolidated school who was the teacher selected in 1948.

"I have never enjoyed summer school experience more in my entire teaching experience," said Miss Cowmeadow. "I have attended summer school at Pitt, Duke, and the University of Southern California but my experience at Penn State was the most delightful of all. So much so that I am returning there this summer to work on my master's degree."

Complete Change

"Summer school is a fine thing now for any teacher," continued Miss Cowmeadow. "Any one who has had a long experience in teaching has a tendency to become more or less static. A teacher needs new views, a broader outlook in her

In the picture. Perhaps you or Dad should go with the boy alone or together with some other boys his age to the woods, for some months. Be sure the sister does not mess up his collection and possessions. Read my bulletin on jealousy (to be had in a stamped envelope).

You and Dad should help this lad search through old magazines for beautiful pictures he would like to cut out and mount, and get him inexpensive reprints of beautiful pictures. Spend a lot of time enjoying pictures and their collection with him. As he feels your deep interest in his hobby you can get over to him the right way to treat books and the like.

While destruction of books and such must be curbed, your emphasis on punishment was hardly good. Even your explanations were shrouded in anger and incrimination. It might be well, however, to check on this lad in connection with other situations not related to his collective or creative interests, when rather stern measures might be warranted at times if he clearly disregards the rights and possessions of others. Related bulletins are: "Letting Little Children Learn," and "Teaching Child Care of Property," to be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N.Y.

"I think it is absolutely necessary that the Soviet Union come to a peaceful understanding with the western powers. But it will not be done for peace and security—but for possible profit and advantage of the Soviet."

TOKYO—Shoji Yasuda, managing editor of the Tokyo news paper Yomiuri:

"We do not want Japan to turn militarist again, but we do feel the need for a new force strong enough to suppress Communism while at the same time preventing a return of the militarists to power."

NEW YORK—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, to defense attorneys for 11 top Communists:

"You and your colleagues have obviously adopted new techniques by which, instead of the defend-

By Farrington: prohibiting the sale of comic goods because of the effect the comics have on children of the community.

"Mayor" Brinton then left the chair to the floor and introduced a resolution thanking Mayor Haven and his colleagues for the opportunity given to "run the city for a day."

Council adjourned, following which the "mayor and councilmen" went to join the elected officers and gain an insight as to how the city is conducted. Other subordinate officers also hurried to their "new duties".

"Chief" Bob Brinton named four lieutenants of police, as follows:

John Russo, in charge of traffic; Rudolph Roman, in charge of the fifth and eighth ward district; Jack Sadler to use a cruiser car to inspect conditions and what police are doing in various sections of the city, and Harry Jermakowicz as office lieutenant.

He assigned Harold Layton as captain of police.

State Police Work

They all started out on their duties. Layton and others were given a demonstration by Captain McMullen as to fingerprinting, photography and classification of cards of persons arrested for various offenses.

Grover C. Syling, sergeant, instructed James Kennedy, Myron Brooks and Dick Travers and Harley Floyd, named sergeants, as to the duties of a desk sergeant. He explained the procedure and also explained the operation of the teletype system to the Boy Scouts.

Meanwhile, while the boys were busy, the Girl Scouts were equally as busy gaining knowledge of the city through secretaries and clerks.

The positions were filled as follows:

Secretary to the Mayor, Joan Paden; health department secretary, Lillian Armstrong; purchasing agent, Carol Foster; secretary to the city engineer, Nancy Dougherty; secretary to the police chief, Anne McKenzie; clerks in finance department, Ruth Heath and Barbara Boyd, and clerk assistants' office, Barbara Cartwright.

During the afternoon the Boy

Boy Scout officials who attended the ceremonies in City Hall this morning were: Tom Paden, president of Lawrence county Boy Scouts; John Lawson, field Scout executive; John Brinton, Sr., publicity agent.

Associated Artists Plan Exhibition

Fred Alexander Gives Talk On
Materials; Patricia Trehearne
Is Winner Of Award

Associated Artists of New Castle, made tentative plans on Friday evening during their monthly criticism meeting, for a painting exhibition to be held sometime in May. Further details are to be made.

The meeting was conducted in the East Washington street studio, with president, Otto Pearsall in charge.

Fred Alexander, well known local artist and member gave a most enlightening and informative talk on "Materials Used in Paintings." His talk was well received.

Under the direction of Craig McBurney, a period of constructive criticism followed. Each member submitted a painting which was completed during January, and the entire group offered criticisms. Miss Patricia Trehearne was January's award winner for the "painting of the month," which was selected as the artist who showed promising improvement.

Regular business was completed, and at the close a delicious buffet lunch was served by the members.

March 4, is the next meeting, however every Friday evening is a "work night" for the members at the studio.

Food Situation In World Shows Big Improvement

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 7.—(INS)—The United Nations said today that the world food situation has improved tremendously since the war's end and that inflation is on its way out.

The U. N. issued its economic survey of the world which noted that "inflationary pressure is not likely to be further aggravated during 1949 and may even be reduced in a number of countries."

The report pointed out that 1948 world harvests were the greatest since the war, adding:

"The improved food situation is perhaps the most important economic development during the past year and, for that matter, since the end of the war."

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—Claude Rains, a guy who is British as tea and crumpets, has been banging around the movie dodge for 14 semesters, but he never portrayed a real modern Englishman on the screen until this month.

All these years Rains has been knocking down bales of Yankee dough money by making like Americans, Italians, Germans, Greeks, Frenchmen and Spaniards. Now, finally, the one-man United Nations has reverted to type.

Modest Craftsman

Rains, a modest, soft-spoken craftsman who is generally regarded as Hollywood's most solid performer, recalled:

"I was French in 'Casablanca' and in 'Notorious' I played a German. In 'Caesar and Cleopatra' I was a Roman."

And you might remember that in 'The Southerner' he portrayed an attorney replete with an accent that would wilt a Dixie cup.

In his current film frolic, a thing called "Rope of Sand," which Hal Wallis is concocting for Paramount, Rains enacts what he describes as a Pukka Englishman, a very ultra-ultra Britisher.

"I'm really kicking up with the crisp British manner of speech, too," he said. "Have to show my friends in London that I haven't forgotten."

Watch Your Eyebrows

Ever wonder why so many movie dolls are beautiful but dumb-looking? You know, the baby-face stare that indicates they haven't a cell working upstairs.

Well, a gent named Ben Nye, who happens to be boss of the 20th Century-Fox make-up department, blames it on the hairline eyebrow.

The hairline consists of plucking eyebrows until the forehead resembles the front row on a burlesque show.

Nye tips the gals with this free beauty advice:

"Most people may not realize it, but eyebrows perform a major part in lending expression, regardless of a person's mood. Remove most of them, such as is done in the hairline and the subject's face

Five Confronted With Court Action In 'Fake' Divorce

Local Red Cross Seeking Their Sewing Machines

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—(INS)—Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, and four other persons have been ordered to appear in court Tuesday on contempt charge growing out of the obtaining of a "fake" divorce.

All five were cited for contempt last night by Cuyahoga county Common Pleas Court Judge Samuel H. Silbert, presiding in divorce court, following a meeting with a special committee of the Cleveland Bar Association.

The petition filed by the bar committee against the respondents included charges of conspiracy and aggression against the dignity of the court.

Leonard Hammer, a reporter for the newspaper, obtained the "fake" divorce last week as a stunt to prove how "easily" it could be done. Hammer's story on the matter then was given top play in the newspaper.

Also cited in the contempt charges besides Seltzer and Hammer are Louis Clifford, city editor of the paper, and Richard R. Campbell, make-up editor, and his wife, Mrs. Florence M. Campbell, for whom the divorce was obtained.

Recruit Charles A. Gee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gee, of Rose avenue, has arrived safely in Yokohama, Japan. He was two weeks crossing the Pacific, and reports the voyage was rough at times. He is attached to a ground crew in the Army Air Force.

Election Plan
May Survive

Survival Of Electoral College Prospects Are Seen As Brightening

OTHER NEWS OF NATIONAL AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Heartily criticized as archaic and unrepresentative of the people's will, the Electoral College may survive as a result of strong opposition to its abolishment by Democratic congressional leaders.

The Electoral College actually elected the president and vice president, casting the entire vote of each state for the candidate with the largest popular vote, however close that vote may be.

Strongly-backed has been a proposal to divide each state's electoral vote according to the proportion in which it was cast. For instance, in New York, which has 47 electoral votes, two-third would go to Candidate A, if he polled two-thirds of the popular vote. The other one-third would go to Candidate B, assuming there were only two candidates.

An unusual situation arose at the Electoral College dinner preceding the inauguration when President Truman announced he was willing to allow the college to continue and Senator Howard McGrath (D) Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National committee, said it had outlived its usefulness.

McGrath had distributed copies of a prepared address in which he said the college might be abolished. Whether the president knew of McGrath's speech or not is not known. In any event, he said in an off-the-cuff address that he was all for letting the Electoral College carry on its 150-year life.

When McGrath arose, it was assumed he would revise his remarks in view of what the president had just said. However, the senator did the unexpected. He stuck up for his belief that the college should be abolished.

Nevertheless, it is known that other congressional leaders want to retain the institution, archaic or not, probably for political reasons.

Home Economics Council Sponsors Guidance Program

Junior And Senior Girls Hear Of Home Economics As Career

Furthering the attention focused on home economics as a career for the girls of the Junior and Senior classes at Senior high school through the address made by Miss Lois Helman, of Drexel Institute, in December, another home economics program was presented, sponsored by the Council of Home Economics Women.

The program was presented as part of the guidance program at Senior high school, which is directed by Mrs. Norman P. Nelson, guidance director. Miss Ruth Wallace, chairman of the project, was in charge and Miss Virginia Pierson presented the speakers, who are members of the council and represent careers as home economists, teachers, dieticians, country extension and business.

Those who spoke and their subjects were:

Mrs. James Bradford, "Home Economics in the Field of Journalism."

Mrs. Pauline Elliott, "Home Economics Teaching as a Profession."

Mrs. Fred Taylor, "Home Economics in Industry and Business."

Mrs. William Brandon, "Hospital Dietetics."

Mrs. Arthur B. Foster, "Home-making as a Career."

Mrs. George Hellyer, "Textiles in Home Economics."

Miss Patricia Kelly, "Agricultural Extension Work."

Mrs. Floyd Nowling, "Opportunities in Home Economics for Those Without a College Career."

Mrs. Paul Hoagland, "Extension Courses Offered in Home Economics."

Further programs are planned by the council to stimulate interest in home economics as a career.

SUNSHINE MARSHALL'S CONCERN

SAN JUAN, P. R., Feb. 7.—(INS)—Sunshine, not Stalin, is Gen. George C. Marshall's main concern at the moment.

The former secretary of state held a brief news conference at San Juan yesterday, where he is convalescing from an operation, and wouldn't say a word about the international situation.

He did disclose that he was "in fine shape," has gained weight, likes the sunny climate, and has "no definite plans for the future."

Gen. Eisenhower Lashes At Critics Of Columbia Faculty

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower lashed out at charges that Communists or fellow-travelers are members of the Columbia Teachers college faculty.

In a letter to Columbia alumni, the university's president declared "there are no pinkos" among the teachers.

Eisenhower said that the teaching profession is one of the Communists' main targets. But, he added:

"It is to the everlasting credit of our teachers that 99.9 per cent have stood by their guns."

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Nathan Ausbel tells about a merchant from Chem who drove his horse and loaded wagon to a neighboring town and was asked by a prospective customer, "What are you selling today?" The merchant whispered in his ears, "Oats."

"Why the secrecy?" demanded the customer. "S-s-sh," soothed the merchant. "Not so loud. I don't want the horse to hear."

A chorus girl from the Ziegfeld Follies was tried for creating a disturbance in a bar and grill. The appreciative foreman of the jury announced, "We find the defendant curvaceous, breath-taking, lovable, callipygian and oh, yes, not guilty."

A teacher asked, "If a number of sheep is called a flock, and a number of quail is called a bevy, what would a number of camels be called?" The nine-year-old reader answered, "A carton."

Greater Opportunity For Leisure Urged By Yale President

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 7.—

(INS)—President Charles Seymour

of Yale university criticized the crowded academic life of American college campuses and called for

"much greater opportunity for leisure."

Speaking before Yale's last wartime mid-year graduating class Saturday, the Yale president complained of the "excess of American enthusiasm for organized activity."

He declared:

"The American confidence in the insured results of a course of study, on the part both of faculty and the students themselves, is a startling phenomenon. There is on the one hand the assumption that if you have taken a course you have mastered the subject.

"There is an equally surprising assumption, on the other hand, that if you have not taken a course in a subject you cannot possibly acquire mastery of that subject by yourself."

"What we need in college, and in after years, is leisure in which to read and the judgement to read the best books. And from that reading to go on to what it means, quietly apart from the activities of the crowd."

Following receipt of a rather sharply worded protest, signed by members of the Lawrence county bar, relative to the condition of the main court room, the county commissioners have made plans to renovate the room.

When the court house was done over during the WPA days, it had been planned to do the room over and modernize it, like the rest of the court house, but for some reason or other, this was never done.

In recent months, several large patches of plaster have fallen from the walls and ceiling, the walls are dirty and the entire atmosphere of the room is depressing.

Work of renovating the room will get under way soon, it is announced.

Highway Safety Head Urges Care

Asks Motorists To Have Mid-Winter Check-Up Made Of Automobiles And Other Vehicles

HARRISBURG—Give your driving habits and your car a mid-winter checkup now, to be sure you get through the year's most hazardous season safely.

That was the warning issued today by T. Elmer Transeau, state director of highway safety.

"Winter is far from over," Transeau advised. "It will do motorists well to check on the condition of vital equipment, such as equalized brakes, anti-skid chains, lights, defrosters and windshield wipers."

At the same time, he pointed out, it's wise for drivers to review their safety practices, since "know-how" behind the wheel often means the difference between life and death on packed snow or ice.

"Guard against rear-end collisions by lengthening distance between your car and the vehicle ahead," Transeau admonished.

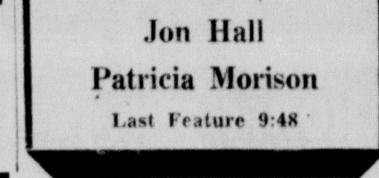

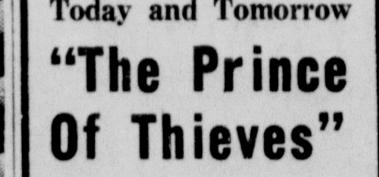

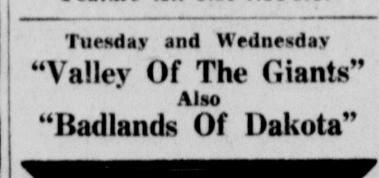

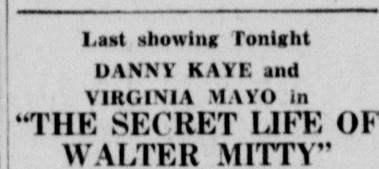

"Don't depend on tire tread for adequate protection on packed snow or ice. Beware of the possibility of accidents at intersections and on curves, by slowing down well in advance and approaching such locations cautiously. Braking distance without tire chains on snow or ice are three to 12 times greater than on dry pavement. Make gradual starts and stops, and avoid any sudden changes in direction or rate of travel."

VOTERS TOUGHER

PREPARING FOR HER 1949 concert season, Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, talks over details of her tour in the New York office of her new manager, James A. Davidson. In the presence of a throng of reporters and lensmen, the young artist was given the usual wishes for a long and successful career. She will remain in New York to study music with Coenraad V. Bos, noted pianist. (International)

Potato Growers Still Have Many Potatoes On Hand

HARRISBURG—Pennsylvania potato growers on January 1 still had 6,430,000 bushels of spuds remaining for sale from the 1948 crop, the State Department of Agriculture announced from federal-state surveys.

This was only 20,000 bushels less than the amount on the same date last year.

Potato production in 1948 totaled 19,425,000 bushels for the state, a bumper crop resulting from a record average yield of 185 bushels per acre. This was about 1½ million bushels more than the 1947 crop, although the acreage of 105,000 this past season was 4,000.

Average amount of salt in sea water is 3.5 percent.

Suggests Irish Schedule Post-Season Grid Games

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Agitation is on for Notre Dame to play a post-season football game, and this pressure isn't coming from some of the bowl promoters, but from South Bend, Ind., home town of the university.

Latest log to be dropped on the flickering flame which breaks into a full-fledged conflagration of speculation each fall comes from Jim Costin, South Bend Tribune columnist.

This may not be a log on the fire at all, but rather one of those things known as a straw in the wind. (Incidentally, this shows how original a guy can get if he tries hard enough.)

Correct Situation

Insofar as Sam Sausage, the man in the street, is concerned those other schools are merely suburbs of Notre Dame. There are people in New York, for instance, who are convinced that Notre Dame was built primarily to provide an opponent for the Army football team at Yankee Stadium each fall.

Aside from football, Notre Dame is a power in other sports, including basketball, although the latter seems to have been somewhat neglected from a spectator standpoint.

Costin says realistically that this situation could be easily corrected with a few post-season football appearances.

Drazenovich To Battle Crandell

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 7.—

A preview of the 1949 intercollegiate heavyweight title bout looms Saturday when Penn State's Chuck Drazenovich trades blows with Syracuse university's Marty Crandell in a dual meet at Syracuse, N.Y.

Crandell, 19-year-old sophomore, is touted as a comer in the college ring and his coach, Roy Simmons, thinks he's good enough to go to the top in the national collegiate ranks. Drazenovich, meanwhile, is the defending champion in the east.

Perhaps Villainain can't fight much. He couldn't stand Belloise. But somehow the fans loved him. Maybe Fred Allen isn't a great comedian. But the public thinks so. That's the pay-off.

Training Season For Majors Three Weeks Distant

Not More Than Six Hold-Outs

New Baseball Law Has Accomplished Much To Eliminate Bickering

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The opening of Major League spring training now is only three weeks away and there aren't a half dozen holdouts among all the 16 clubs.

As a matter of fact, that word "holdout," is a vague misleading piece of baseball parlance which begins to find its way into the sports pages almost before the officials have a chance to mail out the contracts for the next season.

If a player asks for a conference on the salary offered him he is stamped as a holdout, when, strictly, a holdout is player still unsigned when the training camp opens.

In any case, the new baseball law stipulating that a contract can't be cut by more than 25 per cent of last season's salary has done a lot to eliminate salary bickering.

The owners sometimes find themselves confronted by semi-holdouts, who yammer and wrangle right down to almost the last minute, but they usually show up.

The outstanding semi-holdout of the moment apparently is Walker Cooper, the New York Giants catcher who has been asked to take the full 25 per cent cut or a salary reduction from $30,000 a season to $22,500.

Fantastic Purchase Price
Cooper was in and out of the lineup with injuries last season and as a result was scarcely up to the $30,000 contract which he finally received after being purchased three years ago for $175,000.

That fantastic purchase price—for a catcher—caused such widespread disbelief when announced that owner Horace Stoneham of the Giants had his check photographed for the view of beholders.

It did another thing: It boosted Cooper up into the salary stratosphere, as catchers go, and he now demands that Stoneham continue to support him in the style to which he has become accustomed.

They will get together sooner or later, as will all the rest.

Feller In Fold

Bob Feller supposedly has already come to terms with owner Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians for just about all the cut the tariff will bear. At that, because of his previous all-time high, including attendance bonuses, he will still do pretty well.

The young man from the Iowa tall corn country has done far better than perhaps any ball player in history of comparable age, taking everything into consideration.

His salary has been pyramided year by year and during the off season he has piled up many more thousands, or hundreds of thousands with one scheme or another.

Had Bad Season

He never had any serious hold-out troubles, including even this year when he has been a little slow in buckling down to the fountain pen tips.

He had a bad season—for him—last year and finally gave up all his extracurricular activities to try to regain his old-time form. He almost did at that.

He did well enough to convince Veeck that he still has enough stuff left to help defend that world championship next summer, so on Tuesday he probably will be all lined up at a Cleveland conference.

You can name the other still unsigned players on one hand.

Coach Briggs Is Taken By Death

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 7.—(INS)—Funeral arrangements will be announced later today for Chester E. (Spike) Briggs, 62-year-old dean of Pittsburgh high school football and basketball coaches, who died in a Pittsburgh hospital after two heart attacks in his home Sunday.

He coached football and basketball at Fifth avenue high school since 1916 and had a top reputation for taking "poor boys" from the slum area of Pittsburgh to develop great basketball teams.

His 1920 club was the first Pittsburgh quintet to challenge for the PIAA basketball championship but lost to Harrisburg Tech in the final. He won city championships in 1916, 1921, 1929, 1930, 1935, 1940 and 1941.

Pee Wee' Naples Sets Pace As Ecclesians Are Knocked From Second Place, 66-41

"Pee Wee" Naples went on a scoring spree Saturday night as the Eagles whopped the Ecclesian club 66 to 41. The very dependable Naples put on a great shooting exhibition to score 24 points.

As a result of the loss, the Ecclesians club was dropped from its second place slot.

Humphrey got 14 more for the Eagles and played excellent under both boards. Peterson's 18 markers topped the losers in scoring.

Tuesday night the Eagles play the Elks and then meet the East Brook Boosters in a benefit game for Norb Borowicz on Wednesday.

Elks Take Wampum Merchants 65-57

City-county league leaders, New Castle Elks, continued on their way to a first half championship by taking the Wampum Merchants 65 to 57 Saturday night at Washington gym.

The Elks jumped into a 10-point lead at the end of the first period in a game that was very close the rest of the way.

Tim Koone, Hal Jackson and brother Bob combined to give the Elks 38 points. "Snake" Procopio and Ray Jackson topped the losers with 19 and 16 respectively.

The Elks completed their first half schedule this week. Tuesday night they meet the Eagles at senior high and then play the East Brook Boosters in the "big game" Saturday night at Washington.

The Titans play at Bethany tomorrow night and meet the Pitt Panthers Saturday night at Washington.

SIGNS WITH PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 7.—(INS)—Outfielder-first baseman Johnny Hopp today was the twenty-fourth Player to sign for the '49 season. His signed contract was received via special delivery from Hastings, Neb.

He did well enough to convince Veeck that he still has enough stuff left to help defend that world championship next summer, so on Tuesday he probably will be all lined up at a Cleveland conference.

McCullough's Departure Signals End Of Victory On Kent Floor Saturday

An improved Kent State college basketball team, and Westminster's "away" complex combined to give Kent State a 76 to 58 cage triumph in the Ohio college town Saturday night.

The Titans had previously defeated the Golden Flashes 64 to 50 in the home opener for the Washbaugh men. Kent State, however, has been moving among the leaders in Ohio collegiate cage circles and has compiled a 14-5 record.

Fatal Third Period

The visitors were in the game for the first period which ended 20-20, and trailed by only two markers at intermission. However, the rested Golden Flashes soon found the range on their home floor and gunned to a 63-47 lead at the end of three stanzas.

The host, club outscored their rivals 13 to 11 in the final chapter to ease into their fourteen win.

Leroy Thompson, tall, rangy Kent center, led his mates in scoring with 21 markers. His efforts Saturday night also broke a one-year scoring mark for Kent State cagers. Dave Haverstock chipped in 13 more for the winners. He had a like number in the Titan engagement at New Wilmington.

McCullough Shines

Don McCullough sparked the losers with 16 points and some of his usual high quality bankboard play. "Ozark" committed his fifth personal foul midway in the third period and Titan victory hopes faded with his departure.

Bruce Wagner returned to a starting role and accounted for 12 points. John Abraham kept first chair on the other starting forward slot by breaking into the double column figures with 11 points.

Westminster had one of its poorest nights from the foul line and connected on only 12 out of 30 charity attempts.

The Titans play at Bethany tomorrow night and meet the Pitt Panthers Saturday night at Washington.

Shenango St. YMCA Takes Win No. 16

Shenango St. YMCA made it 16 straight wins without a setback Saturday night on the Central "Y" floor by taking the Super Browns 65 to 57.

The height and close guarding defense of the locals curtailed the effectiveness of the set play and set shot style used by the visitors.

James Clark and Willie Thomas were high point men for the Shenango lads, who used 12 players in the contest.

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Harry Markson, head of the 20th Century Sporting Club, disclosed today that the promotional wheels have begun to grind slowly toward dragging Ray Robinson into the ring for a title defense.

This may take a lot more grinding than anybody has bargained for, considering that the welter-weight champion has virtually made a career of running out of non-title fights and hasn't made a defense since last June.

Markson said he had conferred with George Gainford, Robinson's manager, and had been advised that two non-title fights are planned for the champion to determine whether he can still make 147 pounds.

Last June when Robinson made his last defense against Bernard Ducson, of New Orleans, in a bout at Chicago they had to do everything but cut off a leg to get Robinson down to the weight limit.

May Move Up

If he can't make the weight, he probably will seek to move up immediately to a contender among the middleweights, and leave the welter division to the scrambling of Kid Gavilan, of Cuba, Frankie Fernandez, of Honolulu, and Ducson, who is a Filipino.

Two or three others figure less prominently in the picture, which possibly might also include Ike Williams, the lightweight champion. He still can make his own fortune at the moment as a result of his sizzling win over Williams last Friday night and they know a box office attraction when they see one.

Two of the outsiders who figure in these negotiations are Vince Foster and Charlie Fusari, who meet on Feb. 18. However, Markson said that the future of these two will depend to great extent upon what happens when they meet.

The latter two are potentials. Robinson, Williams and Gavilan are birds in the hand, in a manner of speaking.

RALLY DEVELOPS IN STOCK MARKET BY JOHN CUTSHALL AND HENRY PATRICK

Upturn Is Noted In Early Trading In New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(INS)—The stock market rallied in early dealings today, with motors and steels in the forefront. Trading was on a fairly active scale.

Today's upturn represented the first gain for the industrials after four sessions in a row of decline, climaxing by acute weakness on Saturday.

General Motors advanced a point to 60 3-4. Chrysler moved up 7-8 to 54 3-4. The bond market was generally lower in forenoon dealings, with second-grade rail issues fractionally below last week's closings.

In commodities, grain prices rallied after their recent tumble. Corn was up as much as 1 7-8 cents a bushel and wheat gained up to 3-4. Cotton, however, was under renewed pressure and it showed early losses of as much as $1.45 a bale.
